In December 1863, Dodd carried some letters to business associates of his father in Union-held Little Rock, Arkansas. While traveling home to Confederate-held Camden, Arkansas, he mistakenly re-entered Union territory. Found to be without a pass, Union soldiers questioned him and discovered that he was carrying a notebook with the locations of Union troops in the area. He was arrested and tried by a military tribunal, with little defense offered for his actions. The tribunal found him guilty of spying and he was hanged for his crime in January 1864. Though Dodd did not reveal the source of the information, a 15-year old girl named Mary Dodge and her father were summarily escorted back to their home in Vermont. These events have led to David Owen Dodd being called the "Boy Martyr of the Confederacy".

Chapter 5: Certificates

General Information

The following certificates are available from GHQ for purchase by individual members or camps. Contact GHQ for availability and prices.

Membership Certificate

This certificate is embossed with the member's name, camp and number, and his ancestor's name and unit. It is signed by the Commander-in-Chief and the Adjutant-in-Chief and bears the official seal and ribbon of the Confederation.

Supplemental Certificate

This certificate is identical to the membership certificate, but is intended to honor additional Confederate ancestors. Members may obtain this certificate by submitting a standard Application for Membership, marking it "Supplemental" at the top, and submitting it directly to GHQ with the required fee.

Officer's Commission

Commissions are available to all officers of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. This commission is embossed with the officer's name, office and date of appointment. It is signed by the Commander-in-Chief and the Adjutant-in-Chief and bears the official seal and ribbon of the Confederation.

Chapter 6: Authorized Insignia

General Information

Following are the only insignia of rank authorized for wear in the Sons of Confederate Veterans. All changes to insignia of rank require the approval of the General Executive Council. Units below the National level are not authorized to use any insignia of rank other than those listed in this manual. Although no hard-and-fast rules apply to the wearing of insignia and medals, there are some generally accepted protocols in regard to placement of these devices. See the next section for details.

National Officers

The following insignia consist of an appropriate neck ribbon from which is suspended a metal wreath and SCV emblem. The specific composition of the wreath for each officer is as follows:

Commander-in-Chief large silver star with 2 small gold stars.
Lt. Commander-in-Chief large gold star with 2 small silver stars.
Past Commander-in-Chief..... Same as Commander-in-Chief.
General Staff large gold star with 2 small gold stars.

The medallions for the above insignia may also be worn on the breast pocket of a business suit or blazer as an informal alternative to display on the official neck ribbon for that office.

Army Department Commanders

Department commanders' insignia consists of an SCV emblem attached to a neck ribbon of a pattern designated for that Army as follows:

Army of Northern Virginia red with a centered gray stripe.
Army of Tennessee yellow with a centered gray stripe.
Army of Trans-Mississippi light blue with a centered gray stripe.

Division Commanders

Division commanders' insignia is the same as department commanders, without the gray stripe. Division commanders may add a distinctive emblem or device of their choosing to the neck ribbon to symbolize their particular state.

Insignia of Past Service

Past Department and Division commanders may continue to wear the designated badge of office by affixing a 1/4" silver star to the neck ribbon in the center of the ribbon, immediately above the SCV medallion.

Brigade and Camp Officers

The Brigade and Camp Officers' insignia of rank is the membership medal with an appropriate metal bar across the top designating the officer's rank. Rank insignia are available for the following: Division Lt. Commander, Brigade Commander, Camp Commander, Camp Lt. Commander, Camp Adjutant, and Camp Chaplain. Rank insignia are also available for Past Commander and Past Adjutant.

Protocol for wearing medals and insignia

General

This section provides some guidelines on the wearing of medals on civilian clothes or Confederate uniforms. These guidelines generally follow those used by the US Armed Services. Some general terminology: “Award Medals” are those earned by the individual through personal effort--e.g., Distinguished Service Medal, SCV Commendation Medal, etc. “Insignia Medals” are those badges of office, in medal form, such as the Camp Commanders’ Medal. “Service Medals” are the medals given to groups for a particular type of service. Convention medals fall in this latter category. Award Medals should only be worn at formal or semi-formal functions —banquets, memorial services, conventions, or any similar occasion where the accepted wear is business suit, sport coat, Confederate uniform or formal dress.

Some Basic “Don’ts”

Don’t mix miniature and full-size medals in the same grouping. Don’t mix Award Medals, Insignia Medals or Service Medals in the same grouping. Don’t wear Award Medals on informal outwear, e.g. shirts and vests. Don’t wear Award Medals during reenactments and similar exercises. Don’t wear any Medals that you didn’t personally earn. Descendants, for example, should not wear medals earned by their ancestors. Don’t wear non-SCV medals to SCV functions. The one exception is formal occasions — see Precedence, below.

Mounting of Medals on Clothing

On formal attire, business suits or sport jackets which have breast pockets, award medals should be pinned just below the top edge of the left breast pocket, with no more than four full-size or five miniature non-overlapped medals in a single row. When more than two medals are worn, they should be on a mounting bar if possible. If more than one row of medals is needed, the rows should be staggered slightly. The upper row should overlap the lower, and the rows must be spaced to allow a small amount of ribbon of the lower row to show. Medals should be equally divided between upper and lower rows. Display of more than three rows is discouraged. If an individual has more than eight full-size or ten miniature medals, overlapping of medals on each row is acceptable. This will allow more medals to be placed in a single row. Medals should not overlap more than 50%. Insignia Medals should be pinned on the right breast pocket. Service Medals should only be pinned on the lapels. In Confederate uniform or formal attire without breast pockets, the positioning of the medals should approximate that for the wearing of the same medals on civilian attire. Award Medals should be centered on the left breast approximately ten inches from the top seam. Insignia Medals may be worn on the right breast, at approximately the same height. Service Medals should not be worn on Confederate uniform or formal attire. Full size medals may be worn with formal dress, but miniature medals are strongly encouraged.

Precedence of Medals

Award Medals should be mounted with the highest-ranking SCV medals (see below) starting at the top row on the inside and proceeding to the wearer’s left. Next should come MOS&B medals, and finally any Division or Camp medals. On formal occasions (including SCV formal functions) where only miniatures are worn, medals from other heritage groups of which the wearer is a member are also acceptable, but must be worn last in order of precedence, regardless of their ranking. Insignia Medals should start from the inside and work out, with the individual’s highest-ranking medal on the inside. These medals would normally not be mounted on a bar, since most are made only in full-size. Neck ribbon insignia medals may be worn anytime Award Medals or Insignia Medals are appropriate. Only one such neck ribbon should be worn at a time.

Ranking of Medals

For purposes of determining precedence, the SCV award medals are ranked as follows:

1. Jefferson Davis Medal
2. Robert E. Lee Medal
3. Distinguished Service Medal
4. Meritorious Service Medal
5. Graves Award Medal
6. Heritage Defense Medal
7. SCV Commendation Medal
8. Rev. J. Williams Jones Christian Medal
9. Real Son Medal
10. Grandson Medal
11. SCV War Service Medal
12. J. Edgar Hoover Law & Order Medal
13. SCV Service Medal
14. David O. Dodd Medal
15. General Jo Shelby Medal
